

Komel Grover, MBA

President & CEO

Swiss American CDMO

Komel V. Grover is an experienced strategic development executive in the biopharmaceutical, biotechnology, medical technology, personal care, and manufacturing industries demonstrating commercial success. She has made significant corporate and therapeutic area contributions as evidenced by commercial success and thought leadership. Her leadership over the strategic development platforms she installed in each of the last three companies led to increased market share and growth, propelling each company on a path to successful acquisition.

Komel has 20 years of commercial industry experience across neurology, immunology, cardiology, wound healing and dermatology specialties. Additionally, she has held executive leadership roles with increasing P&L responsibility and success, commercial and development pipeline successes, and market share growth. She has led corporate teams at technology centers as well as pharmaceutical and biotech hubs to provide oversight and management of technical areas to increase corporate performance. Her leadership and performance have forged pathways for commercial organizations and academic centers of excellence to collaborate.

Komel has established herself as a thought leader with extensive influence and development of life science therapeutic areas underscored by service in elected leadership roles in various industry associations. Komel continues to build upon her record of creating strategic and accretive value in corporate and market share growth as President & CEO of Swiss American, as well as having a seat on the Swiss American Board of Directors.
